Homework Analysis - Writing

Summary

The Arctic World Archive is a highly secure data storage facility located on a remote island between Norway and the North pole, 300 meters underground. Its stable temperature eliminates the need for energy-consuming climate control, and its isolated location ensures minimal risk of unauthorized access. Data is stored on durable digital film that lasts 500 years and cannot be altered. Although ~~retrieval~~ retrieval is not instant ~~which~~ ^{and} requiring physical collection and secure transfer, and this offline method provides unparalleled protection against cyber threats, making it a reliable solution for safeguarding valuable information.

The Arctic World Archive is a highly secure data storage facility located on a remote island between Norway and the North Pole, 300 meters underground. The Arctic World Archive is a (highly) secure data storage facility located 300 meters underground on a remote island between Norway and the North Pole.

“300 meters underground”在句末变成附带信息，容易被读者当作补充细节忽略掉 energy consuming climate control energy-consuming climate control energy-consuming 是一个形容词, “-” 是形容词构词法, 所构成的单词一起修饰后面的名词

Although retrieval is not instant - Although retrieval is not instant requiring physical collection and and requires physical collection secure transfer... and secure transfer...

虽然破折号带有解释、说明的作用, 但是适用于较随意的语境中, 并且语法不够严谨。Forrest
要养成习惯, 将破折号变成从句或者并列句

Museums: Where Education Meets Engagement

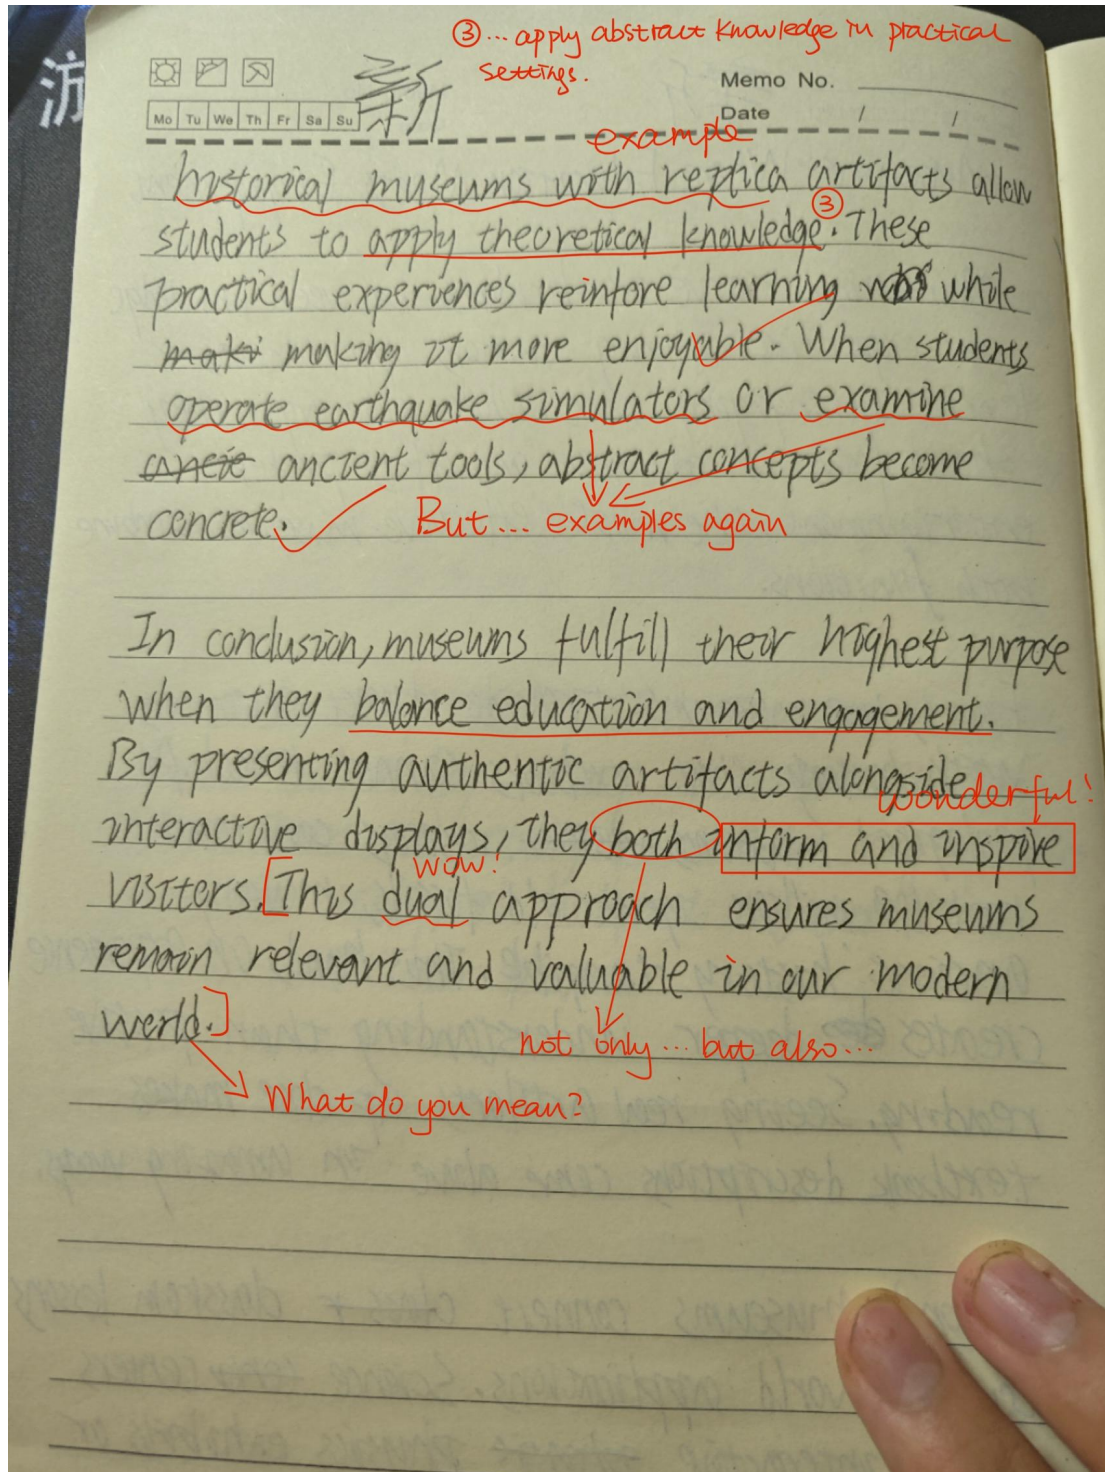

Museums serve as bridges between knowledge and experience, offering visitors opportunities to learn in engaging ways. While some argue they should focus ^{purely} on education, ^{others??} ~~and~~ others prefer entertainment. (the most effective museums combine both functions.) ⇒ Your opinion or?

不是很明白这部分，另列旁人的观点，再表达立场还是其他意思?

First, ~~has~~ museums provide ^{experience?} direct encounters with history that textbooks cannot ~~match~~ ⁱⁿ. ^{for example,} geological museums, ~~visitors~~ visitors can touch real ^{over} 100 million year old fossils, making ^① ancient history tangible. ^{→ 一个词.} This hands-on experience creates ~~de~~ deeper understanding than passive reading. Second, museums connect ^{一个词} class & classroom lessons to real-world applications. Science ~~center~~ centers with interactive ~~physic~~ physics exhibits or ^{example}

Title

Excellent!!!

Introduction

While some argue that they should While some argue that museums focus on education, and offers should focus purely on education, prefer entertainment, the most others prefer entertainment. The effective museums combine both most effective museums combine functions. both functions.

表达观点这部分内容中，结构有点混乱。“while”引导的是条件状语从句，所在的句子于另外半句内容相反。

那后半句“and”想表达什么呢？如果主语是“they/museums”，那 offers 不应该用三单；并且，这半句内容和前半句不是对立的

重新整理一下吧：

While some argue that museums should focus purely on education, others prefer entertainment. In my opinion, museums should balance both functions.

Body Paragraph 1

First, museums provide direct First, museums provide direct encounters with history that encounters with history that textbooks cannot match. textbooks cannot.

删掉末尾“match”的原因：

原句应该是：museums provide direct encounters with history that textbooks cannot (provide).

因为最后的 provide 在前面已经提及，所以可以省略

如果是用“match”，想表达什么意思呢？

real 100 million year old fossils real fossils (which are) over 100 million years old

“100-million-year-old”应该作为一个形容词，修饰 fossils；或者将它改为从句（右边）

In geological museums, visitors 先有分析后有例子，重新整理： can touch real 100 million year old fossils, making ancient history tangible (例子). This hands on experience creates deeper understanding than passive reading. Seeing real artifacts up close makes textbook descriptions come alive in amazing ways, allowing students to bring textbook content to life (分析).

段内结构 PEEP 的意思是:

Point - Elaboration/Explanation - Example - Point (link back)

所以我们先对 Point (观点) 进行 Elaborate (解释说明), 再用 Example (例子) 强化

Body Paragraph 2

Science centers with interactive physics exhibitions or historical museums with replica artifacts... (例子)

When students operate earthquake simulators or examine ancient tools... (例子)

同 Body Paragraph 1, 重新整理:

Practical experiences reinforce learning while making it more enjoyable. Science centers with interactive physics exhibits or historical museums with replica artifacts allow students to apply abstract knowledge in practical settings. What is more/Furthermore/Moreover/In addition/Besides, when students operate earthquake simulators or examine ancient tools, abstract concepts become concrete.

*reinforce reinforce (补充)

这部分的例子举得很恰当，并且例子后面也有对应的解释，但是先对观点进行解释说明，再举例子，结构会更加清晰。

Conclusion

By presenting authentic artifacts alongside interactive displays, they both inform and inspire visitors. By presenting authentic artifacts alongside interactive displays, they not only inform but also inspire visitors.

both改为not only but also更好，用上固定搭配会更加分！

如果用not only作为后半句开头，应该如何倒装？

By presenting authentic artifacts alongside interactive displays, not only do they inform visitors, but they also inspire them.

inform和inspire有头韵，很棒！

This dual approach ensures 这句话什么意思呢？ museums remain relevant and 直接删掉 valuable in our modern world.

New Writing Task - In-class Practising

Homework 2 - SUMMARY

12 Read the article about a man called Wim Hof, who can survive in extremely cold temperatures.

Write a summary about what Wim Hof has managed to do in cold temperatures, AND the advice Wim Hof gives about how to get used to the cold.

Your summary should be about 80 words long (and no more than 90 words long). You should use your own words as far as possible.

You will receive up to 6 marks for the content of your summary and up to 6 marks for the style and accuracy of your language.

Wim Hof – ‘the iceman’

Wim Hof, born in 1959 in the Netherlands, is known as ‘the iceman’ for a very good reason. He has an unusual ability, which is simply that he doesn’t feel cold at all, even in very low temperatures. Scientists say that what he is capable of should be impossible.

What exactly can Hof do? By the time he was a teenager, he could easily run in the snow without shoes on. This was the first of many achievements which have surprised doctors and scientists. But he says that anyone can learn to do what he is capable of – the key to success is to concentrate on what you are doing. Over time, Hof has developed a method which he claims is not at all complicated to follow.

The body temperature of a ‘normal’ person would drop dangerously if they spent much time in extremely cold temperatures. But Hof broke a world record by sitting in a large container full of ice for 1 hour and 52 minutes, and throughout this time his body temperature remained the same. This is not the only amazing thing he has done. He has swum under ice in a lake for 120 metres, without taking a breath. He has also run a marathon in the Arctic, wearing only shorts and sandals. And, in the same clothes, he has climbed almost to the top of Mount Everest.

Most people would not want to try to do the things that Hof has achieved, but some do. He now teaches people how to cope with extreme cold. The first thing to learn is to control your breathing. He has developed special exercises which help you to do this. After that, he says you should gradually get used to the cold – for example, you can start by standing under a cold shower for a few seconds. While you are doing this, you should relax and enjoy the experience because, as Hof says, ‘the cold is your friend!’
